It's an almond tree shaker. Gets the nuts out.

Under normal circumstances, or at least what passes for normal in the precious metals markets, this would be an “all bets are off” scenario with the April jobs numbers release tomorrow morning. But there was a lot of length shaken out of the market in the last 24 hours. A fair old number of those recently shaken out longs will likely plow back in with reckless abandon on any weak figure. So there may be some money to be made from the long side with the caveat that a strong number could kill you.
